PHOTOGRAPHY IN THE REFINERY

For reasons of security, safety and protection of proprietary information, picture taking in the refinery normally is not allowed except when the photographs are needed for company use.

Employees who need to take work-related photographs should prepare a cold-work permit signed by his supervisor and countersigned by the owner of the area or subject that he wishes to photograph. Whenever the use of flash bulbs is required a hot-work permit must be obtained. The Safety Section, PR/IR photographer and the Lago Police are not required to obtain cold-work permits as long as the subject to be photographed is in an "open" area, i.e. road, etc. All employees, visitors, contractor personnel and outside photographers who wish to take pictures inside the refinery for personal or other non-company reasons must make prior arrangements with the Public and Industrial Relations Department, always complying with the above permit requirements.
